Tucked within the quiet residential neighborhood of Herberts, this 0.6-acre plot offers a calm and spacious setting just five minutes from the center of Antigua's capital, St. John's. The land lies in a desirable location for those looking to build a family home or secure a long-term investment in a growing and accessible area. With flat terrain and clear boundaries, the property supports a seamless building process and offers plenty of space for a thoughtfully designed residence, garden, or even expansion in the future.

Herberts enjoys a reputation as a peaceful suburban community with a strong sense of local pride. Homes in the area reflect care and stability, and the streets carry a relaxed rhythm that invites residents to settle in and enjoy the slower pace of island living.
